From the Desk of Our Pastor ....

Epiphany 2024

Try to imagine a Christless world; actually, many in our secular culture dream of it. I think of John Lennon's song "Imagine," a catchy tune with abominable lyrics. He imagines a Marxist utopia where there are no countries, boundaries, materialism, heaven or hell, or religion. It has become a hymn for atheists and agnostics, as well as countless other non-thinking persons are moved to tears over it.

What was it like before Christ? True, there were wars and suffering before as there were after, but there was no spiritual light. As for pagan religions, the gods were territorial, for the most part, tied to the countries where they were worshipped. They offered no comfort or solace; they were as unpredictable as nature and the weather. Apart from Israel, there was no idea of a personal relationship with God. There was no true idea why we humans even existed, who we are, or where we are going. There was a general concept of good moral behavior but no empowerment on a personal or national level to achieve it. This is called darkness.

This is why Epiphany is so essential to the world. Epiphany is the revelation of Christ to the nations. Isaiah foresaw a time when the nations, completely shrouded in darkness, would see a great light. This light of Christ has spread throughout the world, and everywhere it has shone, faith, hope, and love have spilled into human hearts like never before. Civic institutions grounded themselves in Holy Scripture; the Church's morality and ethics were the basis for their laws.

Christianity never assumed there could be a utopia on this earth. It always assumed the Church could make things better as we journey as exiles toward our true home in heaven. Our secular culture, which is heavily influenced by utopian Marxism and by John Lennon, often fails to acknowledge what life was like before the advent of Christianity. Many of their ideas and concepts such as "equality," "love," "freedom," and the value of the human individual, presuppose the foundational influence of Christianity, despite their distorted interpretation.

Dear brothers and sisters, we must keep Epiphany before us because we live in a culture where the darkness is returning, shrouding us with death and moral decay in the name of progress. Epiphany is at the heart of our Church's mission of embracing Christ's life and reflecting His love. Let us imagine what it would be like for Christ to fill all our hearts and the hearts of our neighbors.

Yours in Christ,
Father John Worgul
