From the Desk of Our Pastor

The Obedience of Christ

It is very clear from the Gospels that God our Father has high spiritual and moral expectations of us all. Do we wake up every morning and live out our days conscious of this fact? Many of us have no consciousness that God observes every little thing we do, peering deeply into our souls where every secret thought is laid bare, let alone having any expectations of us except some vague idea of “being good.” How do we respond to the uncomfortable fact that God has high expectations of us and has the right to make demands of us?

It is also very clear from the Gospels that if left to ourselves, we would be crushed under the weight of God’s expectations because of our sins and failures. The good news is that we are united with Christ through His death, resurrection, and sacraments and empowered to be like Christ through this union. What does this mean specifically? Three things about Christ need to be true of us. First, we must have the mind of Christ. This means we must think like Christ rather than natural humanity. Second, we must have the compassion of Christ. So often, Jesus would look out over the crowds and feel deeply for people.

The third thing is to have the obedience of Christ. Our readings for this Sunday speaks to this. Notice how the Messiah in our Isaiah prophecies has “opened ears” so that He can hear. To “hear” in Scripture means to be obedient. In this prophecy, obedience leads to suffering, beating, and humiliation. Obedience is a key idea in our James reading as well. Faith (having the right attitude toward God) is necessary, putting our faith into action.

Likewise, in our Gospel, St. Peter demonstrates remarkable faith in rightly identifying Jesus as God. Right after that, Jesus reveals what this will mean for Him: obedience to the Father’s will leading to crucifixion. Jesus simply says that with this confession of faith must come the same obedience that He himself demonstrates. We, too, must be obedient to death.

Faith must be demonstrated by our obedience. So many churches congregate around a common faith, but very few follow Christ in obedience. It goes beyond occasional good works into a realm of sacrifice to carrying our cross, to self-gifting ourselves to one another and to God. Let us strive together as a church to possess and demonstrate the obedience of Christ.

Yours in Christ,
Father John Worgul

The Year of Formation 2024 - 2025

Did you know there are six components of Catholic formation: (1) to promote knowledge of the faith, (2) to promote knowledge of the meaning of the liturgy and the sacraments, (3) to promote moral formation in Jesus Christ, (4) to teach us how to pray, (5) to prepare one to live in community, by participating actively in the life of the Church, and (6) to promote a missionary spirit that is outward looking to society. These components are represented in our SJCC vision statement: “Embracing Christ’s Life & Reflecting His Love.” How are you being formed? How can SJCC accompany you in the Year of Formation?
