From the Desk of Our Associate Pastor...

Dear Friends in Christ,

Today we begin our orderly reading, on Sundays in Ordinary Time, through St Luke's Gospel. We omit the infancy narrative found in Luke's first two chapters. (We heard it recently during Advent and Christmas.) We omit also Chapter 3, which recounts the ministry of John the Baptist and the Baptism of Jesus, followed by His temptation for 40 days in the wilderness. So today, after hearing the opening dedication to Theophilus, with Luke's statement of intent, we pass immediately to the scene in the synagogue of Nazareth. It's here that Luke chooses to begin his account of the public ministry of Jesus: The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to bring glad tidings to the poor.

Among the Evangelists, Luke is the one above all who chooses to highlight the mercy of Jesus. Luke, more than the others, gives a privileged place to the poor, the outcast, and sinners. Luke's is the Gospel, beyond all others, of the gentleness and compassion of Jesus; the Gospel of the Holy Spirit, of prayer, of joy, and of the mission to the Gentiles. Luke was not a personal eyewitness of the life of Jesus, but he knew plenty of people who were, and his faith was one with theirs: the faith of the Catholic Church.

Theophilus, to whom Luke's Gospel is dedicated, already had that faith. Luke's stated purpose in writing isn't so much to convert him, as to demonstrate how securely based is the faith Theophilus has professed. There is nothing uncertain, delusive, erroneous, or impermanent about it. But Luke doesn't just assert that, as a used car salesman might. He wants Theophilus—he wants us—to go carefully through the evidence with him and come to that conclusion for ourselves.

So Luke will invite us to fix our attention on Jesus, listening to His words, watching His actions, hearing those who bear witness to Him and those who oppose Him. We will follow Jesus from the beginning, through His miraculous Birth and obscure childhood, to His public ministry and conflicts with the authorities. Most importantly we'll hear of His Passion, Death, Resurrection, and Ascension. Then in Luke's second volume, we'll follow the story through, with the coming of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, and the early drama of the Church.

Let us ask the Holy Spirit to help us encounter Jesus ourselves, directly in the text: that we may know again His fascination, His attraction, His goodness, His holiness, His humility, His power. May our reading of Luke's Gospel this year renew us in faith, hope, and love, and confirm us in our resolution to live and die as disciples of the Lord Jesus.

Live Stewardship

“Go, eat rich foods and drink sweet drinks, and allot portions to those who had nothing prepared...” - NEHEMIAH 8:10

Ezra’s instructions to the people show us that God does not forbid us from enjoying the good things in life. He wants us to be happy! However, God expects us to be grateful for all that He has given us and to generously share our blessings with those who are in need. Now here’s the hard part – to share all we have in Stewardship, without expecting anything in return.
