Thoughts Shared by Our Pastor...

ALL SOULS DAY

As your pastor, I have been concerned about the lack of full catechesis on death and dying. It seems to me, that death in our culture has become a topic we would rather not think about let alone plan for. This reveals a fundamental breakdown of faith in God and his power to resurrect those who have passed on from this life to the next. The more we are invested in this mortal life, the less we are invested in the eternal and less likely to die well. Death is not something we should dread. Rather, it is a goal like a finish line for those aspiring to heaven. After all, we all should know that this life is preparatory for something far greater.

As Catholics, we firmly believe in the resurrection of the body and its dignity, even after death. What happens to the body after death is of great importance to Catholics. The call for dignity doesn't preclude autopsies, and organ donation. Autopsies are permitted for legal inquests and scientific research and organ donation is considered an active mercy (CCC 2301). Cremation is acceptable to the church with certain provisos. The church demands the body be present for the requiem mass. It has however become commonplace to directly send the body to the crematorium to avoid funeral expenses. This is not in keeping with preserving the dignity of the body. It is true a mass can be celebrated with an urn, but this is not the ideal. When there is a cremation, it is important to maintain the dignity of the body and so the urn must be inured in a sacred place designated for proper burial, either a cemetery in the ground or columbarium. Keeping the urn on the mantle piece or one's closet is unacceptable to the church as is dividing and sharing the ashes among loved ones or pouring out the ashes in one's garden or elsewhere.

All souls day is a proper time to think about these matters. As a matter of practicality, we should all have a living will to help our family and direct them and the medical community with regard to our end of life decisions. While certainly euthanasia is out of the question for Catholics, we should define at what point we no longer wish to have our life prolonged with machines and other procedures when death is near. Ordinary Care, such as hydration should never be denied and painkillers are permitted, but not with the intent of bringing on death, but only comfort when death is inevitable. (CCC 2277-2279,2299).

Our race here on earth is short, it is with proper preparation and communication with our families that we can preserve the dignity of life and our bodies while making our preferences and funeral plans known. So on this All Soul's weekend, let's prepare for the finish line by making our wishes known and thoroughly understood.

Yours in Christ,
Father John Worgul

Do You Have Medical Training?

If you are a doctor, nurse, EMT, or trained in CPR or first aid, we invite you to share that information with the parish office. Having a list of medical professionals within our community helps us respond quickly in emergencies.

Together, we can make sure our parish remains a place of safety, care, and peace for all who worship here.

Stewards Prayer

"...because I came down from heaven not to do my own will but the will of the one who sent me..." John 6:38

When we pray the "Our Father", say the words slowly so you truly recognize what you are saying. Every day when praying this prayer, we repeat what Jesus said in the scripture passage - "thy kingdom come, thy will be done."

Even though we say these words, do our actions reflect those words? This is the difference between saints and the rest of us. Saints were faithful and obedient to God's will. Start today - start aligning your words and actions with God's will for you.

A CUP OF COFFEE FOR SAINT JOSEPH

Our Enhanced Giving Campaign

Here in Eldersburg, a cup of coffee costs about $3.50. If each of us fasted from one cup a week and offered that amount in support of our parish, imagine the difference it could make! Your small sacrifice could help our ministries grow and serve more people. Visit SaintJoseph.cc/Giving to begin or increase your OnlineGiving.

Thank you for your faith-filled support.
